Schedule Your Appointment Today

Colon cancer is the third leading cause of cancer deaths in the United States*, and will be diagnosed in one of every 20 people. But here's the good news: Death rates due to colon cancer have been dropping steadily for the past 20 years, thanks to early detection and improved treatment.

We understand you may be apprehensive about scheduling your procedure due to the COVID-19 pandemic, but postponing routine and preventative care can lead to worsening conditions and delayed intervention. Screenings such as colonoscopies can be lifesaving. Rest assured, LRH has implemented all of the necessary measures to keep everyone in our care safe and protected.

It is recommended that everyone be screened for colon cancer every 10 years, beginning at age 50. Ask your provider for a referral to LRH Gastroenterology today.
